

Wednesday 22 July 2015 at 2.00pm

Gillie Cunningham

Errors are OK, or are they?

Gillie Cunningham will explore the role that errors play in language learning and communication. Based on her experience as a teacher and teacher trainer she will raise questions concerning attitudes towards mistakes from both a teacher's and a learner's perspective. She will also consider the efficacy of various correction techniques.

Gillie Cunningham has been in ELT since 1973, working mainly for International House and the Bell Educational Trust as a teacher and a teacher trainer. She has also been closely involved with the Cambridge ESOL Delta examinations. She is the co-author, with Chris Redston, of Cambridge University Press's adult course face2face (1st edition, 2005 and 2nd edition, 2013).